This position offers an opportunity for meaningful and challenging work in an encouraging and dynamic environment that promotes trust, excellence, leadership, and teamwork.

This position will:

- Facilitate collaboration between Crown corporations, ministries, and other public agencies to manage energy policy issues and ensure long term planning, with a particular focus on electricity and natural gas.
- Represent CIC to private businesses and associations to advance and coordinate interests in affordability, reliability, innovation, investment, and security.
- Analyze and propose innovative energy solutions as well as the systems and policies required to enhance energy security.
- Actively manage the responsibilities of the Energy Transition Unit for analysis, research, modelling, advice, coordination, policy development, for a variety of files such as energy-related investment attraction, regulatory improvements, sector governance, and provincial policy positions.
- Manage a high-performing team of analysts.
- Contribute to a corporate culture of trust, collaboration, information sharing, and excellence.

To be successful in this position you will maintain effective working relationships with all CIC units/divisions and stakeholders, including individuals within Crown corporations and Executive Government, to ensure effective communication and best possible analysis and advice.

Qualifications and skill requirements include:

- Preferably a graduate degree in public policy, economics, engineering, business, social sciences or humanities, with experience managing strategic issues in government. Equivalent combination of education and experience will be considered.
- Demonstrated leadership qualities and management skills, including the ability to work independently in a collaborative environment and as a leader of a team.
- Strong skills in influencing, analysis, synthesis, problem solving, writing, and presenting.
- Ability to work independently and proactively on dynamic, complicated, and sensitive issues.

- Ability to work collaboratively, build relationships, and value the perspectives of others.
- Fluency with Microsoft Office suite, including comfort with basic data and financials.
- Experience in or knowledge of the public sector in Saskatchewan is an asset.
